To whom it may concern:

Do Neha Ram, Singasan joined our Accenture Internship Program from 15 May 2025 to 14 August 2025 as an Application Developer Intern. Over the course of 13 weeks, she consistently performed at an excellent level and made meaningful contributions to the project team.

Neha demonstrated strong capability in drilling into complex queries and delivering solutions that met requirements. A fast learner, she quickly picked up new technical skills such as microservices, Azure Data Factory, and KQL. One of her key accomplishments was successfully completing a critical domain code fix by collaborating closely with the application lead; the fix was deployed to production and has been running smoothly without any issues.

During her internship, Neha also provided valuable support to the domain team by assisting with issue investigation and problem troubleshooting. The project required her to collaborate with a diverse mix of colleagues during team meetings, where effective communication was key. Being confident and highly adaptable, she carried herself confidently and communicated her ideas clearly to the team.

She was also a strong team player and received favourable comments from her colleagues. She built and maintained good relationships with her peers and was willing to coach junior team members.

Overall, Neha performed her role with excellence and dedication. She completed all tasks assigned to her with strong attention to detail and commitment to quality, while demonstrating the potential to take on larger responsibilities. I am confident that Neha will be a valuable addition to any future employer she joins.

Yours faithfully,

Jeff Lu
